

Some of your profits are hiding. We'll help you find them.

When trying to find more value within your operation, it helps to look everywhere. Even in the trash.

In healthcare facilities, it is not uncommon for non-infectious solid waste to be placed in the same container with regulated medical waste. As you know, that error is not only costly, but it raises environmental compliance issues.

Our healthcare experts can work with your staff to help them properly segregate and dispose of waste – often directing it from higher-cost to lower-cost categories. We can also help eliminate waste through diversion and recycling. Less waste means more savings.

To date, Waste Management has helped customers in other highly regulated businesses uncover more than $60 million in value from what they used to throw away.
